

Let's be engaged.

EMPLOYEE ENGAGEMENT AT LANGARA

Employee engagement is defined as an employee's intellectual and emotional connection to their job, work environment, management, and colleagues. It can also have an impact on an individual's motivation, involvement, and commitment to their organization.

Langara's workforce is diverse in composition, experience, and talent. Our vision is to provide an environment that supports a culture of collegiality and respect amidst our diversity. In support of this vision, we're making employee engagement a top priority. Let's work together to enhance engagement across the College and create a workplace that benefits us all.

Learn more.

www.langara.ca/hr/employee-engagement

Here are some ways to be engaged at Langara:

- Share a smile, hello, or conversation with someone new
- Write a personal thank you note to someone at work
- Listen to and consider your colleagues' opinions
- Provide input at team meetings
- Share your ideas and feedback with your leaders
- Celebrate "team wins" and share success stories
- Join a committee like the S.O.S. or United Way campaigns
- Register for a wellness class
- Attend a Philosophers' Jam, English Forum, or Strangers on a Train event
- Volunteer to help out with on-campus events like Convocation or Welcome Week
- Prioritize your own development by attending a PD session or registering for a course that interests you
- Stay informed about the latest College events and successes through internal communications