

Travel to Costa Rica Spring 2025

LAMS 1102 Trouble In Paradise

Join us in LAMS 1102 to learn about Latin American perspectives on the environment with an option to travel to Costa Rica during spring break to experience first-hand tropical forest research and marine conservation and meet Indigenous people who are leading sustainable development initiatives in their communities.

Cost Estimate: $1,900

Includes in country transport, accommodations, food and national park fees
Does not include airfare or travel insurance

How to Apply:

Register for LAMS 1102 and WILX 1101 in November

How to Apply for Funds:

We have some funds to offset travel costs through the Global Skills Opportunity Fund, Langara Global and the One World Scholarship.

To apply for funds, contact Heather Workman. Globalskills@langara.ca

For more information contact: Ginette Dubé gdube@langara.ca Latin American Studies

Learn on the ground and in real time how Costa Ricans are addressing climate change, protecting the environment and creating alternative development models in their communities.

Places We Will Visit

Cartago and TEC University Environmental Projects

Irazú Volcano,

Lankester Botanical Garden

Cachi and Orosi Valley

Tropical Forest Research Centre: San Vito, Las Cruces Botanical Garden

Bruncajc and Brorán Indigenous territories to meet with indigenous leaders who are leading sustainable development initiatives